Sampling & analyses

Your Water is Our Challenge

For decades now, one of our core activities has been the sampling and analysis of (drinking) water.

Sampling

It is recommended that water samples are taken by our qualified samplers; this is carried out according to the current standards for water examination, using special sterilized laboratory bottles. If for practical reasons this is not possible and the sampling has to be carried out by your own personnel, this should be executed according to our written procedures for sampling using the appropriate laboratory bottles; these will be sent to your location on request.

Analyses

Analyses are carried out in accordance with the NEN/KIWA standards for water examination, following Sterlab© * accredited procedures. The results of laboratory tests are presented quickly and in an easily understandable form, with our conclusions and, if necessary, with professional advice.

More information

Please ask our Service Department for details of our advantageous service agreements, in which reduced tariffs are applicable. Such an agreement offers certainty and convenience on the basis of a professional and expert approach. We can provide you with a total package, from sampling to clear (periodic) reporting.
